Every program discussed in this article may be used for purposes other than its intended purpose. We have tried to cover the most popular and useful applications you can use. You don't need to learn the vast array of features provided by the program to have a successful career in your chosen field. Just like with any computer application, if you know how to use Photoshop, you have a better chance of using Photoshop successfully. Photoshop's Role in Web Design Today, Photoshop is often used to design websites. When web designers use Photoshop to design websites, they are working not only with the tool's raster image creation and editing, but they use it to create the typographic elements, such as the heading styles, and graphical elements, such as the background photographs and decorative elements. You can learn the basics of web design and learn how to use Photoshop, too, using the tools in Photoshop CS4 Extended. Learn how to organize layers, apply various Photoshop features and create different types of web pages. Image-editing software enables you to edit raster images. You can use your own photographs, or you can use images you find on the Internet. These images often have little or no correlation to any print technology or print output. They exist solely for viewing on the Web. Photoshop provides many tools to manipulate images, such as cropping or making selections of portions of an image. You can add various effects to the image, such as cloning, tinting and lightening, and even recoloring the image. Web designers often use Photoshop for design projects. For example, they might apply the same background and color to the background and text of all the pages in a site. The designer might design a background graphic for the home page and make the same graphic the background of all the other pages in the site. The designer might create a different background image for each page for creativity, but keeping all the text the same in a site. The designer might even make a graphics file for each page with the colors and background graphics they want to use for that page. You can use Photoshop to design a wide variety of page layouts for Web sites. Besides designing the home page, you can have multiple pages on the site for different purposes, such as about us, contact us, privacy policy, affiliate program, blog and so on. When you design the pages, you can include any HTML codes you want; that is, you can enter HTML into a text box and it will be used

Orion College Orion College is a private college in the United States with its main campus in Orion, Michigan. The college was founded in 1909 by Flint native J. R. Stone, who bought out the United States Industrial College and renamed the institution Orion College. Orion College offers undergraduate degrees as well as online degrees and continuing education programs. History Orion College, founded in 1909, is located in the historic Stickney Block of Orion, Michigan, a former gold-mining settlement in the U.P. about 3 miles south of Ashland, Michigan. The college's facilities also house the Greater Detroit Council of Catholic Women. Campus Orion College has a campus in Orion, Michigan, and also has on-site branch campuses in Novi, and Royal Oak, Michigan. Orion College's athletic teams, the Titans, compete in NCAA Division II. The college fields men's and women's teams in basketball, cross-country, football, golf, soccer, track, and volleyball. Athletics The Titans are part of the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association. The men's cross country team placed first in Division II in 2005, and had a Division II national title in 2014. The women's cross country team won the Division II national title in both 2005 and 2007. In 2007, a group of over 100 alumni, parents, and current students formed the 2013 NCAA Division II Women's Cross Country Championship Tournament Committee, in hopes of creating an NCAA-sanctioned cross country meet in 2013 to replace the Division II-level Michigan Championships. They succeeded in having such a meet, known as the Michigan Intercollegiate, held at the Cedar Springs Sports Complex in August 2013. Orion College discontinued its football program in 2014 due to budget cuts.
