In a post-apocalyptic world, the environment and wildlife has been overrun by a mysterious contamination, which has transformed the once beautiful nature of our planet into a desolate wasteland. Containment Corps is an online, multiplayer first person game that combines a resource management element with traditional shooter themes. In the game, up to four players in mixed groups attempt to destroy each others' bases in game, or attempt to prevent others from doing so. Released on April 27, 2017, Containment Corps is now on Steam (References Category:2017 video games Category:Video games developed in Ukraine Category:Windows games Category:Windows-only games Category:FPS (2016 video game) Category:Cold War video games Category:Video games set in Russia Category:Video games set in the Soviet Union[An intervention study on the effects of a self-care program for postmenopausal patients with osteoporosis]. To evaluate the effects of a self-care program for osteoporotic patients. A total of 114 postmenopausal osteoporotic patients were randomly divided into a test group (n = 63) and a control group (n = 51). The test group was instructed to do and take action according to the guidelines for self-care osteoporosis prepared by researchers. The control group was given the self-care osteoporosis guidelines in the same way as the test group without the intervention. The scores of the two groups on activities of daily living (ADL) were measured by Barthel Index (BI) before the intervention, at the end of the intervention and one month after intervention. The scores of the two groups on BI were not significantly different at the end of the intervention (P > 0.05), but the scores in the test group were significantly higher than those in the control group one month after intervention (P Q: How to get the row and column value of the clicked cell in jqgrid I have been googling this for a while. Download We are Greenlit! A little background story: As you may have heard, after the test servers for Dungeon are done, we are going to focus more time and resources on testing the server. However, in order for that to happen, we need a little time to work on stuff that does not affect the test server. With that in mind, we are releasing the Greenlight version of Dungeon, which will allow you to play the new version of the game and see all the features and fixes that are in it. Greenlight is a service where users vote to indicate whether or not they like a game, either on Steam itself or via its website. The better the game is liked, the more likely it is to be Greenlit and made into a full game. Steam Greenlight will be released in November. Enjoy and be patient. -Greenlight NOTE: In order to download the Steam version of Dungeon, you need to have an existing Steam account. The Steam client is now available for both Windows and Mac. (Steam version of Dungeon is on the way!) NEWS FOR STEAM GREENLIGHT: NEW FEATURES: Classic Mode: As many of you have already known, it is planned that a classic mode will be added to Dungeon in the future, in order to let players play the game without a subscription. However, currently, we are focusing on fixing issues that have been reported, so the plan is to implement this mode at the time that we are able to fully test it. There will be no difference in game mode in classic mode as compared to Steam's present. Carnatic Music: After receiving a lot of requests, we have now implemented Carnatic Music. If you have an Indian keyboard, you can use any of the default (South Indian) set, and use the function for individual notes by pressing the Alt key. New Elements: There will be many new elements added to Dungeon. We are still working on them, but we are doing our best to complete them by the time we launch Steam Greenlight. We will update as more information comes in. Changes in Networking: The network system will be changed from synchronous to asynchronous, meaning that as you enter and leave Dungeon, your character will be handled as if you were out of the game. As this requires more preparation, we will

, Twin Lakes, Thursday, August 5, 2009 Catch a ride back in time with Joe A. and Ben A. on a trip to Twin Lakes State Park. By Rich Evans Published: Thursday, August 5, 2009 at 8:15 a.m. Last Modified: Thursday, August 5, 2009 at 8:21 a.m. The annual feral hog raid on a United States property in Douglas County may have been limited, but that didn't mean the hunting was. At 2 p.m. Thursday, one lucky hunter's luck ran out. No matter. Besides, his friends had already received more than they bargained for. "The fun began when Joe, Ben, and I met up at their campground to go over the plan of action," said Mike Lawlor, who is also with the Chicago, Ill.-based Invasive Plant Council. They'd already dropped off Liz Goertz, a registered nurse and American Wildlands Education volunteer living in the Benton County hamlet of Compton, at a remote campsite. Goertz would bear the brunt of any interaction with the hogs, Lawlor explained, but his role would be to provide a distraction for the hogs while the two other hunters killed them. Lawlor, a retiree who lives near Elkton, Ill., would stand guard over Goertz while teammate Joe A., a middle-school science teacher, killed the hogs. He began by staging an ambush using wood and a litter of pine needles. "I hit them with the wooden post and Joe shot 'em," Lawlor said. "I called the ambulance as we worked, guiding them slowly towards the wood pile to make sure they would pile up tight." Despite the semi-capture of one hog and the death of others, Lawlor's patience was finally rewarded when Ben killed the last of the herd. On opening night at Twin Lakes, during its shooting season, Lawlor and the rest of the Invasive Plant Council — consisting of Minnesota, Illinois, and Indiana residents — are frequent visitors to the 40 acres of the park that they call home, just west of Delta Junction. The volunteers reside in the closed cabins and RV's at Twin Lakes that are rented out for the summer. They are there to make a difference. It may seem like a simple task, to control an invasive species

In the next few years it will be 70 years since the Second World War. Everything changed for mankind. The State of Israel has been founded, and the Soviet Union and its allies have been defeated. The bombs are still flying, and still kill the innocent... These were the last days of the Second World War. The New World order is on the horizon. War is coming... Set in a post-nuclear world, you take the role of the commander of a bomber squadron. In the game, you fly from war to war, seeking targets as well as avoid deadly enemy defenses. The choices you make in war have consequences for the people, and the world. Features: Graphics that perfectly recreate the brutalities of war; Five war zones; 40 main missions; Ten hidden missions. How to Play: This is a reflex game, where you control your bombs with your mouse. Hit a target by simply clicking on it, or aim for a specific location, by placing your bombs on one of the targets. Aim for the enemy by holding the mouse button, or keep your distance by tapping the mouse button. There are ten special weapons in the game, including the bomb and the depth charge. Use them wisely to kill your enemy and create havoc. You can choose to play as one of two air-war heroes: - Warg, the Russian bomber pilot: your first enemy is the A-4 "Harpy," known as the "Flying Coffin" on the European battlefields, and the "Sky Dragon" in the Far East. - Rassvet, the Israeli bomber pilot: your first enemy is the F8R "Tacoma" of the British Airforce. You can take off your Iron Fists to damage enemies and fly into battle. You can also select your own Iron Fists to create your own bomber. There are three difficulty levels, allowing you to select the challenge that's best for you. Key Game Features: Perfectly recreate the brutalities of war: 11 different and unique war-zones, 120 unique enemies, 60 guns and 75 types of bombs. Ten different war scenarios: from the North Atlantic, the Baltic Sea and the Mediterranean to the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic Ocean and the Indian Ocean. Eight different types of missions: flying the bombing mission, escorting the tanks, flying the tanker missions, rocket bomb, attack on enemy ships and escort missions. Immerse yourself
