Biochem. 134: 15-23 (2006)). Indeed, the 14-3-3 proteins have been found to play important roles in human diseases, including multiple forms of cancer, type II diabetes, and immune disorders. For example, 14-3-3zeta has been shown to play a vital role in cell cycle regulation and apoptosis (Burd, J. Biochem. 134: 15-23 (2006)). 14-3-3 proteins are, therefore, considered to be potential targets for novel anti-tumor drugs. The discovery of small-molecule 14-3-3 inhibitors provides a potential approach for cancer treatment. The present invention is directed to this and related important ends.Q: How to draw an arrow will need between $20 billion and $40 billion in improvements over the next 20 years, but little is being done to make sure those funds will actually be put toward infrastructure improvements, according to a recent report. Roughly $10 billion is being spent on repairing roads in Saskatchewan — but only $10.5 billion of that is going towards major projects, leaving the province with $2.5 billion worth of neglected infrastructure. A federal agreement to put $38 billion of infrastructure funding toward shoring up national priorities was reached last year, but Saskatchewan still needs more resources. The report from the Canadian Centre for Policy Alternatives calls on the federal government to put more money into infrastructure and create new federal revenue sources. It also suggests the province take a serious look at using its own revenues to fund infrastructure upgrades instead of depending on Ottawa.

1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a thin film transistor substrate and a display device having the same. 2. Description of the Related Art A thin film transistor substrate is widely used for a flat panel display device, such as an organic light emitting diode display, an inorganic electroluminescent display, and a liquid crystal display. The thin film transistor substrate includes a plurality of thin film transistors (TFTs) and can be divided into a display region in which a plurality of pixel electrodes are disposed and a non-display region in which a plurality of gate lines and data lines are disposed. Each of the TFTs is provided with a gate electrode connected to one of the gate lines, a source electrode connected to one of the data lines,

A crack is a program, set of instructions or patch used to remove copy protection from a piece of .1. Technical Field of the Invention The present invention generally relates to web services and more particularly to protection of web services in a cluster of web servers. 2. Description of the Related Art Web services may be described as web-based application programs that operate in Internet Protocol (IP) networks. Web services may be deployed in any of a variety of environments. For example, web services may operate in Web sites that are hosted on computers with static IP addresses, in network devices such as routers and firewalls, and in other network entities. Web services may be hosted on computers that are described as logical nodes within a cluster of web servers and that participate in the cluster as a group. In cluster implementations, two or more physical hosts may be hosted on a server farm of web servers. The hosts may be configured to act as a single entity such that a Web application will execute using one or more of the hosts as a logical node. Clustering provides a number of benefits, including availability of one or more of a number of nodes in the event of a node failure, operation of one or more nodes with a common workload to provide more efficient use of resources, and load balancing of web requests among one or more cluster nodes. In the case of web services, a cluster of web servers may serve a set of users such that clusters of users can share a set of nodes for performing a task such as Web application development
