Why is FAA approving Boeing's software as part of 787 flight control design - wooby ===== drharby This is an anomaly that seems to cause bad press and not good press for Boeing, which based on this article is a big hit for them in the near future. I don't think it's a good idea to change your entire software architecture for a single plane just to gain a marginal speed advantage. But yea, on a side note, if you can't see the flaw in this ridiculous decision then you must never leave the home office. Your lack of imagination and lack of understanding of what is being changed makes you a major liability in my book. But I suppose that's why you are here, right? Criticism? ---- kawsper > a major liability in my book Why? ---- drharby At the most I'd say you lack a vocabulary for the true level of any liability that might be assumed by a business in a catastrophic failure. At the most I say you lack the true character of a business entity in general to point out technical flaws when no product integrity is hurt or even harmed. You limit yourself to the clearly visual and the clearly tangible. But that doesn't make you wrong, does it? ---- kawsper > Why? Because your comment got downvoted? Or did you really look up > lack a vocabulary for the true level of any liability that might be assumed > by a business in a catastrophic failure At this

I need to add a footer to a text file using python and then use the text file again as input to a node.js decoder. Is there a way to add a binary header to the file prior to running the node decoder 6d1f23a050
